

TAXING HERE IS BY 20 CENTS

State Office Building Removed From Expense Counties Must Pay.

CONDUCT HEARINGS
School District Tax Also
is Sliced.

The reduction is brought about by the fact that the state office building is no longer taking money from the various counties. Last year this required 20 cents from every thousand dollar's worth of property.

Circleville school district only is also reduced 20 cents per month through the same method. The rate for 1932 is $12.10, and a year ago it was $12.30. Circleville-twps' rate is almost back $12 to $11.80.

BUDGETS PASSED

The Circleville corporation budget for 1933 was reduced from $72,947.33 as asked by council to $68,586.93 by the commission. The city schools budget was reduced from $82,500 asked to $80,128.37.

Representing city council before the commission were John C. Goeller, president; E. S. Weisner, Clark Will, C. O. Leist and Fred R. Nicholas, clerk. Charles E. May, president, and J. R. Rouse, clerk, represented the school district.

Darby-twtp trustees and board were appearing before the commission Wednesday.

A number of petitions have been filed with Judge H. M. Rogers of the Fayette-co court of Common Pleas, asking for the combining of his court and the county's courts.

This is permitted by statute when a sufficient number of signatures have been secured on petitions after which the matter must be submitted to vote at the next regular election, which in this case will be the election this year.

It was necessary that 750 names be obtained to the Executive petition.

It is understood that the judge will take the proper steps to get the petition on the November ballot. If the vote shows that the people are in favor of such a combination, the probate court will be

GOVERNOR, PERSONALLY, MAY SEEK FEDERAL RELIEF LOAN

WHITE MAY GO TO CAPITAL

Reconstruction Corp. May be Asked to Aid Ohio
in Winter.

AMOUNT IN DOUBT

Assistance for Schools
Also Needed.

By JACK VINCENT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10.—Governor George White told International News Service that he probably will go personally before the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and appeal for a sizeable loan to carry on relief work among the poor during the coming winter.

The governor asserted positively that "nobody is going to starve in Ohio next winter." He branded as "greatly exaggerated," however, reports emanating from his own state relief commission that as much as $10,000,000 will be needed.

LOAN NECESSARY

A loan from the R. F. C. probably will be necessary, International News Service learned from a member of the governor's commission, because the $18,000,000 made available for relief by the special relief session of the legislature will be exhausted by the end of September. It was said that no less than $10,000,000 will be needed.

Declaring that the upturn of the stock market forecasts the coming of better times, the governor, in an exclusive statement given to International News Service, said: "I believe that when the time comes you will find that the $10,000,000 estimate to be greatly exaggerated."

"If necessary, I will go before the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and ask for a loan. Ohio has no bonded indebtedness—we have paid our way as we have gone along—and I am sure that the credit of Ohio is good in Washington."

That a personal appeal by the governor of a state would not be precedent-setting was seen from a recent personal visit before the R. F. C. by Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. His request for funds was rejected.

WATCHES SITUATION

The governor said he is keeping a close watch on the Ohio relief situation. He has had frequent late-at-night conferences with Adj. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the state relief commission; Highway Director O. W. Merrell, one of the principal members; Major E. C. Braught, executive secretary, and others acquainted with relief needs in Ohio.

"The stock market undoubtedly has a good psychological effect on the mind of the public. Improvement there indicates better times."

The trio was helping load and unload cinders on trucks when they took advantage of a change of guards and fled through a gate in the south wall.

It was believed that they would make for the rugged hill country in Perry-co., south of here.

"Pickaway-co's Hero" Draws Large Crowd to Cliftona Theatre.

RUNS 2 MORE DAYS

Acting and Photography
Both Praised.

"Pickaway-Co's Hero," The Circleville Herald's film, made in Circleville with a local cast, shown for the first time yesterday at the Cliftona theater is the talk of town today.

Crowded houses greeted the initial showing of the movie yesterday and even larger crowds are expected to see the picture today and tomorrow. Those who know photography declare that none of the pictures taken in Ohio on former occasions can compare with the clearness and general cleverness of the latest offering of the talented folks, who played the various roles depicted in the comedy.

CHARACTERS EXCELLENT

Mrs. Mary G. Morris, playing the wife of Mr. Henpeck presented a performance than can hardly be described as amateur. Her expression and general interpretation of her part would be considered splendid if handled by any of the well known screen character women and C. G. Chalfin, as her husband, created many laughs with his clever acting.

Miss Eleanor Anderson, leading woman, was charming and clever. She screens well and her natural beauty and calm action lent a professional atmosphere which helped greatly to take the picture out of the home talent class.

Robert Rooney, the leading male character was splendid. He is a life looking young man and fitted well into the role assigned him. He too, performed well and is today receiving many compliments on the performance which so pleased the large attendance yesterday.

Howard White, playing the reporter, took the houses with many incidences in which he got everything out of the part built for just such a type as Howard. His natural ability for the light comedy role stood out all through the plot and he did plenty toward making the picture the success it was.

Jeanne Crowe in the part of Katrina, the country flapper, carried the slap-stick comedy in fine style and her antics kept the crowd in good humor throughout the show.

PICTURE SURPRISES

The movie made entirely in Pickaway-co by local talent, is so good that the big audiences witnessing it are highly pleased and can scarcely believe their own eyes. It seemed almost impossible that novices could act in such an exceptional manner, registering such natural expressions, etc.

The picture starts with Mr. Henpeck who goes to the station to meet the "baby" the offspring of a friend of the family. The "baby" turns out to be a beautiful young woman.

BABY, NEARLY DEAD, TAKEN FROM CREEK

16-Months-Old Baby Unconscious When Taken from Water by Mother

RECOVERY IS SEEN

Fear of Pneumonia Remains, However.

The near death by drowning of a 16-month-old Scioto-twp child was being recounted Wednesday. In the meantime the child's condition was reported considerably improved although a possibility of pneumonia still prevailed.

The baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Morrison of the Jackson-pk in Scioto-twp, went to a shallow ditch with a three-year-old sister Tuesday afternoon to play. After the children had been there for a while a brother, between the ages of 6 and 8, went to search for them and found the baby submerged in the water. The other child was standing along the bank crying.

The boy ran to his home, calling his mother, who went into the water after the apparently drowned baby.

While carrying the unconscious child toward the house she rolled it from side to side and in this way forced some of the water from the child's lungs. By the time she reached the house the baby was gasping for breath and a call was sent from a neighbor's home to Ashville to have a physician sent at once. Dr. R. S. Hooper answered and when he arrived found the baby in spasms.

He worked over it a while and finally the child had recovered sufficiently to make the doctor believe it would recover.

Whether the baby fell into the stream or whether it adventurously waded in is not known.

Many narrow escapes have been heard of before but none quite so near being fatal as this.

FLYER DENIES CLARKE DEATH

Lancaster Replies "I Did Not"
When Asked of Murder
By Attorney.

COURTHOUSE, Miami, Fla., Aug. 10.—Captain William N. Lancaster, British flyer and war hero, denied today that he had killed Haden Clarke the young writer who supplanted him in the affections of Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix.

"Captain Lancaster, did you kill Haden Clarke?"

This was the first question chief Defense Counsel James M. Carson asked Lancaster when the British flyer resumed the stand today in his trial on a charge he murdered Clarke.

"I did not."

The Britisher's voice was steady but low in tone. He looked Carson squarely in the eyes as he replied. "Did you hear the testimony of M. C. Tancere and J. F. Russell?"

Carson referred to the statements Tancere and Russell, officials of Latin-American Airways, made on the stand as state witnesses that Lancaster threatened the life of Haden Clarke.

"I did," Lancaster said. "Their testimony is a tissue of lies from beginning to end."

Circleville's taxing rate was reduced from $19.30 to $19.10 Tuesday by the county budget commission, according to an announcement Wednesday.

The reduction is brought about by the fact that the state office building is no longer taking money from the various counties. Last year this required 20 cents from every thousand dollar's worth of property.

Circleville school district rate is also reduced 20 cents per thousand through the same method. The rate for 1932 is $12.10 while a year ago it was $12.30. Circleville-twp's rate is slashed from $12 to $11.80.

ALBANY DEMOCRATS TO GREET WALKER

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—While Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt remained at the executive mansion today making a last minute study of the removal charges against Mayor James J. Walker, preparatory to tomorrow's hearing Albany Democrats were mapping plans for a housing reception for the Tammany mayor upon his arrival tonight.

When Walker alights from his train he will be greeted by blaring bands and several thousand Albatians—most Democrats, who will escort him through the city's downtown business streets to his hotel.

The demonstration has been arranged by the Albany-co Democratic organization of which Edward J. O'Connell is chairman. O'Connell is Tammany leader John F. Curry's chief upstate lieutenant.

TO GREET MAYOR
Admitting that he had requested all ward presidents in Albany to have delegations in line tonight to greet Mayor Walker, O'Connell said:

"They'll all be at the station to greet the mayor anyway, so we figured that we might as well organize the demonstration. Albany is an hundred percent for Jimmy Walker and we want him to know it."

Some of the more ardent Walker admirers among the local Democratic leaders suggested that the parade be routed past the executive mansion where it could be viewed by Governor Roosevelt, but this proposal was vetoed by O'Connell.

Mayor Walker made a host of friends in Albany during the years that he was a member of the legislature, and local Democratic leaders said they would not be surprised if 5,000 people participated in tonight's demonstration.

The last parade staged by the Albany Democrats was in honor of Governor Roosevelt's nomination for the presidency.

In some quarters the plan of the Albany leaders to stage a demonstration as a possible threat of what they and their allies may do to the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Albany-co next November if the Mayor is removed. It was considered significant that Tammany hall informed the local leaders of the time of Walker's arrival.

DEVOTING TIME

Laying aside for the time being all of his presidential campaign activities, Governor Roosevelt will devote the remainder of the week to the Walker case. He is confident the hearing will be concluded Friday, and he plans to announce his decision as early as possible next week.

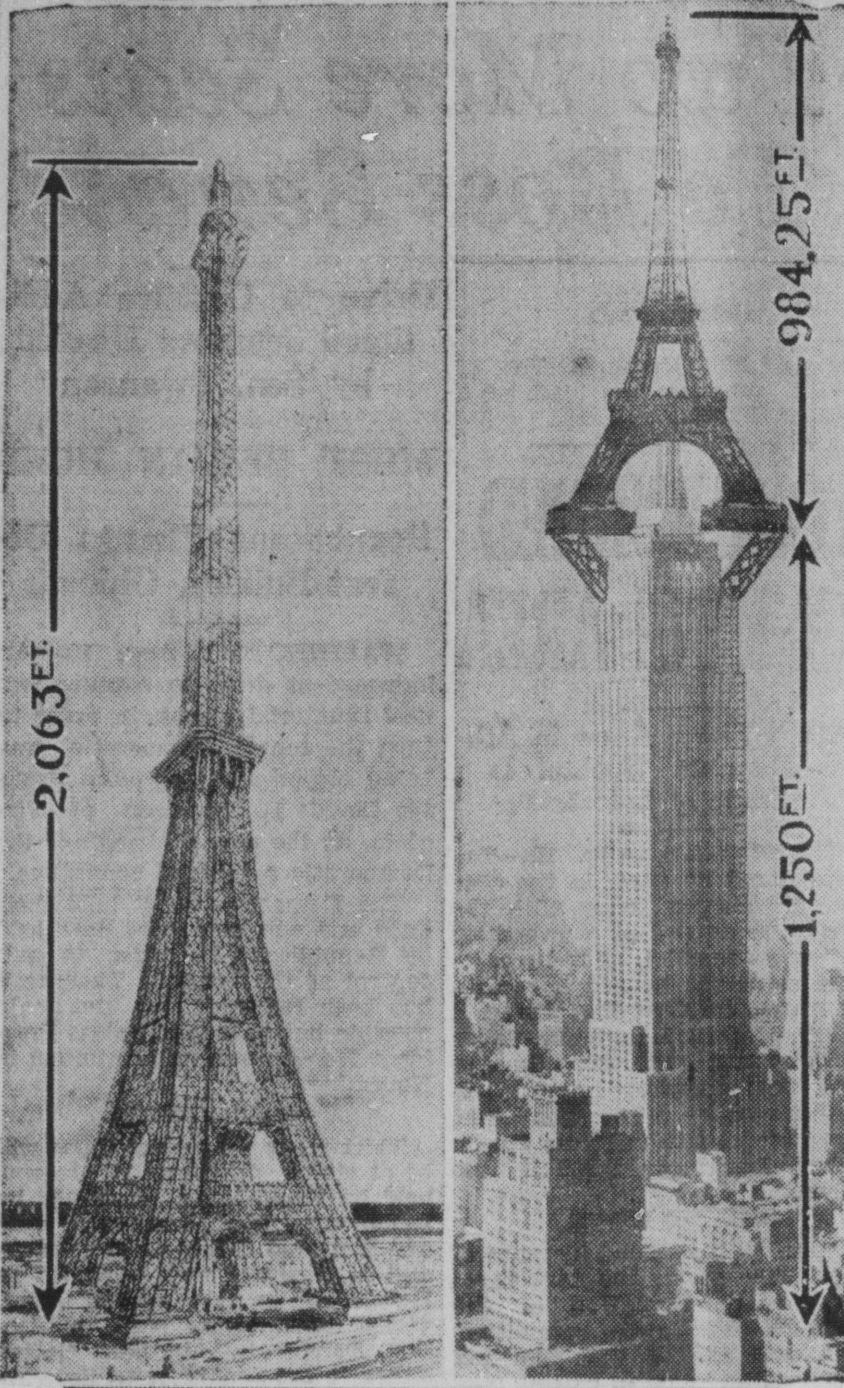

There have been persisted reports at the capitol during the last 48 hours that Roosevelt might announce his decision at the conclusion of the hearing, but these reports have been discounted by his advisors.

With his special counsel, Martin Conboy of New York, the Governor planned today to go through the charges and answers with a fine toothcomb. He told friends that he wanted to have every point at his finger tips when he calls the hearing to order at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the executive chamber.

The eve of Mayor Walker's hearing found Albany tense with excitement. Not since former Governor William Sulzer was impeached 20 years ago has the capitol been so stirred.

The city that is still famous for having been famous for her beer would like to again be famous for her beer.

PLAN TOWER TO DWARF EIFFEL

At the left is the designers' idea of a tower for Chicago that would climb 2,063 feet into the sky, more than twice the height of the famous Eiffel Tower of Paris, which, until the Empire State Building, New York, was built, was the tallest man-made structure in the world. The Eiffel Tower, if placed on the roof of the Empire State Building, as at the right, would rise only 171 feet higher than the proposed Chicago tower. The tower would be situated over the Illinois Central Railroad tracks just south of Roosevelt road. Its cost is estimated at $3,000,000. Planners hope to finish it in time for the World's

40 ESPECIALLY DESIGNED PLANES READY FOR RACES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—More than 40 especially designed racing planes will be among the several hundred ships brought to Cleveland for the 1932 National Air Races Aug. 27 to Sept. 5, Clifford W. Henderson, managing director of the races said today. He predicts that the races will be more spectacular and thrilling than ever.

"None of us have seen real air racing yet," Henderson said. "We had a few special jobs at the races in 1930 and more last year, but never have we had as many as there will be in the contests this year."

"The maneuvers by the Army and Marine Corps, the stunts by the International Team and some of the leading commercial pilots have had more appeal in the past than the actual races, but this will not be the case in the coming event."

FEATURE EVENTS
"With the large number of special planes that have been constructed, we are able for the first time to feature the closed course free-for-all. As a result, I am confident that air racing will become more attractive to the public than automobile or motor boat racing."

"We have been developing the technique of airplane racing in the past few years. After the air races this year, I believe we can say without hesitation that it has arrived."

Henderson points to the numerous racing teams that will make their appearance as one of the most striking developments. Some of these teams will enter as many as three ships in the same event on the theory that this will improve their chances for victory.

USE BRIGHT COLORS

Many of the teams have selected distinctive colors, which are being used in decorating the planes and for the uniforms of the pilots and mechanics. Alternate pilots in many instances are being trained so that nothing will prevent the participation of the planes in the events in which they are entered.

Pits are being provided in front of the grandstand around the edge of the field on either side so the spectators may see the contesting planes at close range. Before each of the free-for-alls, which will be staged daily at the same hour, there will be a parade of the competing planes in front of the grandstand.

Race horse starts will be used for the closed course races, so that the first plane finishing will be the winner.

IT is perfectly natural for smokers to talk to each other about what they smoke and why they smoke a certain brand. Tastes differ, and therefore different people smoke different kinds of cigarettes. Those who smoke CHESTERFIELDS seem to take more pride in telling other smokers — "that CHESTERFIELDS are milder; that there is no harshness — no bitterness." They also tell them — "that CHESTERFIELDS taste better; that they have a pleasing aroma." . . . CHESTERFIELDS are clicking with millions.

ALBANY DEMOCRATS TO GREET WALKER

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—While Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was at the executive mansion making a last minute study of the removal charges against Mayor James F. Walker, preparations for tomorrow's hearing Albany Democrats were mapping plans for a booming reception for the Tammany Mayor upon his arrival tonight.

When Walker alights from his train he will be greeted by blaring bands and several thousand Albany Democrats, who will escort him through the city's downtown business streets to his hotel.

The demonstration has been arranged by the Albany-co Democratic organization of which Edward J. O'Connell is chairman. O'Connell is Tammany leader John F. Curry's chief upstate lieutenant.

TO GREET MAYOR
Admitting that he had requested all ward presidents in Albany to greet Mayor Walker, O'Connell said:

"They'll all be at the station to greet the mayor anyway, so we figured that we might as well organize the demonstration. Albany is an hundred percent for Jimmy Walker and we want him to know it."

Some of the more ardent Walker admirers among the local Democratic leaders suggested that the parade be routed past the executive mansion where it could be viewed by Governor Roosevelt, but this proposal was vetoed by O'Connell.

Mayor Walker made a host of friends in Albany during the years that he was a member of the legislature, and local Democratic leaders said they would not be surprised if 5,000 people participated in tonight's demonstration.

The last parade staged by the Albany Democrats was in honor of Governor Roosevelt's nomination for the presidency.

In some quarters the plan of the Albany leaders to stage a demonstration as a possible threat of what they and their allies may do to the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Albany-co next November if the Mayor is removed. It was considered significant that Tammany hall informed the local leaders of the time of Walker's arrival.

DEVOTING TIME
Laying aside for the time being all of his presidential campaign activities, Governor Roosevelt will devote the remainder of the week to the Walker case. He is confident the hearing will be concluded Friday, and he plans to announce his decision as early as possible next week.

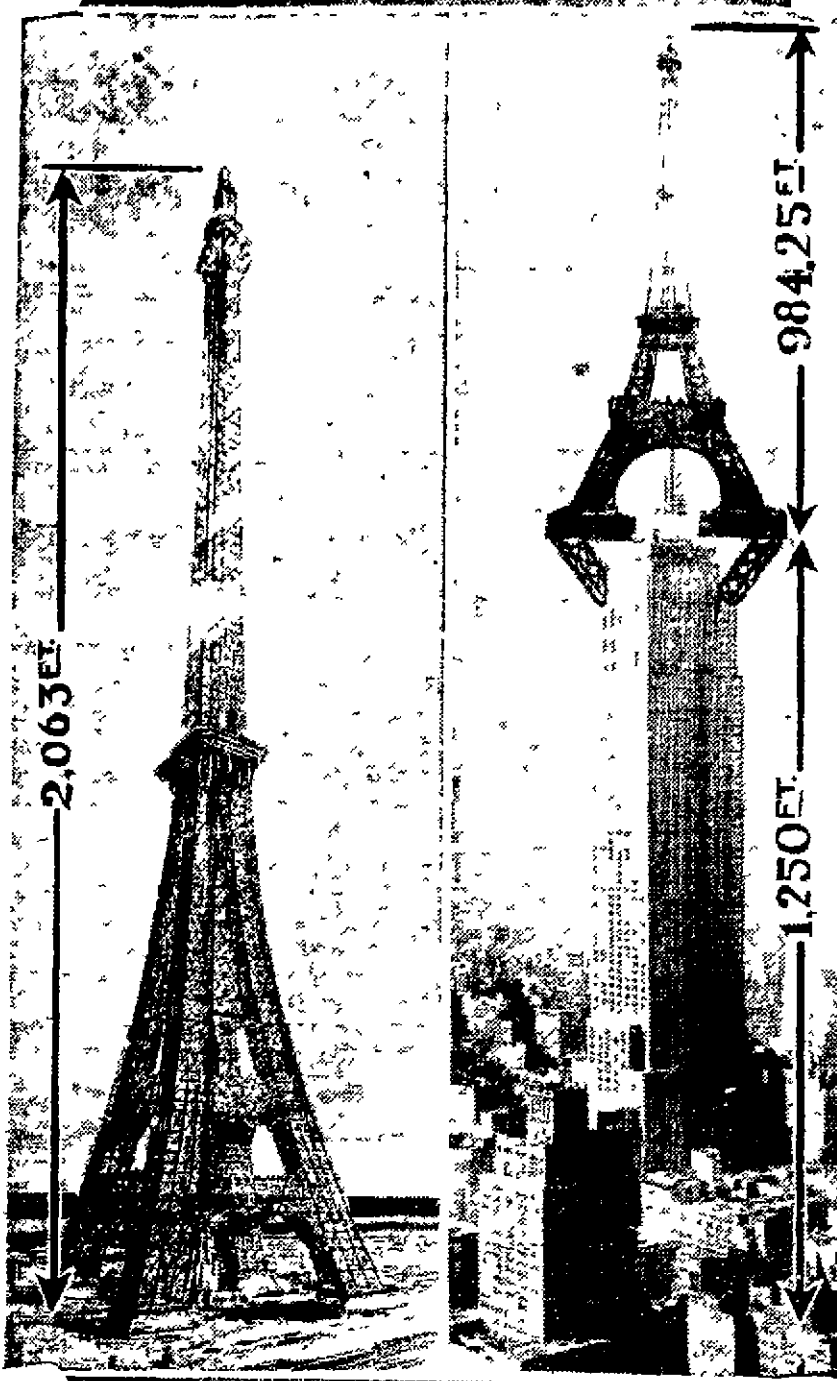

There have been persisted reports at the capitol during the last 48 hours that Roosevelt might announce his decision at the conclusion of the hearing, but these reports have been discounted by his advisors.

With his special counsel, Martin Conboy of New York, the Governor planned today to go through the charges and answers with a fine toothcomb. He told friends that he wanted to have every point at his finger tips when he calls the hearing to order at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the executive chamber.

The eyes of Mayor Walker's hearing found Albany tense with excitement. Not since former Governor William Sulzer was impeached 20 years ago has the capitol been so stirred.

The city that is still famous for having been famous for her beer would like to again be famous for her beer.

PLAN TOWER TO DWARF EIFFEL

At the left is the designer's idea of a tower for Chicago that would climb 2,063 feet into the sky, more than twice the height of the famous Eiffel Tower of Paris, which, until the Empire State Building, New York, was built, was the tallest man-made structure in the world. The Eiffel

Tower, if placed on the roof of the Empire State Building, as at the right, would rise only 171 feet higher than the proposed Chicago tower. The tower would be situated over the Illinois Central Railroad tracks just south of Roosevelt road. Its cost is estimated at $3,000,000. Planners hope to finish it in time for the World's

USE BRIGHT COLORS
Many of the teams have selected distinctive colors which are being used in decorating the planes and in the uniforms of the pilots and crew members. Alternate pilots in many instances are being trained so that nothing will prevent the participation of the planes in the events in which they are entered.

Pits are being provided in front of the grandstand around the edge of the field on either side so the spectators may see the contesting planes at close range. Before even the race for all which will be staged daily at the same hour there will be a parade of the competing planes in front of the grandstand.

Race house starts will be used for the closed course races so that the first plane finishing will be the winner.

Better Business

A YEAR or more ago, the department of commerce, after several wrong guesses, discontinued issued bulletins reporting improved business conditions and heralding prosperity, which was always just around the corner but never succeeded in negotiating it. After a long silence the department has just gone back into the forecasting business with this change of policy; it now has something to back up its claims.

There is no more of the irresponsible optimism. The department reports an upward turn in business, cites its reasons for thinking so, and makes no pretense at telling the country's economic fortune. It doesn't know, for the reason that nobody knows, when the depression will end. But it can see that a change for the better has occurred. Improved bond prices, higher commodity prices, suspension of foreign gold withdrawals and a halt in stock market liquidations are the symptoms of convalescence as the department diagnoses the case.

Things did look black in June; blacker, perhaps, than at any other time since Black October. Industrial payrolls were off another 7.8 per cent; exports declined; 296 commodity prices dropped. But things looked brighter in July and they are looking brighter every day.

This mid-summer improvement set the economists to thinking and researching with the result that previous periods of deflation were found to have passed through the crisis and made a turn for the better in summer months. This one is proving no exception.

The Stock Market

THE stock market still rules men's minds in business matters with an influence for good or bad out of proportion to its real importance in the world of trade.

The stock market has done more in two weeks to lift the morale of the people from the depths of despair than all other forces combined have accomplished in three years. Whatever its course in the near future, the market has demonstrated that it can rise substantially day by day for a period of weeks, and what the stock market can do, business can do tenfold.

In fact, business is doing it. From North and South, East and West came reports of business trends that are on the upgrade. A factory reopens, another increases its force, bank failures decline. Business is getting better.

There may be temporary recessions. But better things are ahead. Uncle Sam has started on the road back to prosperity.

Autumn Is Approaching

THE evenings are growing perceptibly shorter. Is it possible fall is approaching? No dissenters are heard, so this must be the case. Well, fall—or autumn, as it is sometimes termed—isn't a bad season as seasons go. Indications are multiplying that this fall may be the best season of 1932.

Business appears to have touched bottom some months ago and the slow steady pull upward is undoubtedly under way. This will add materially to fall's attractions.

A month from now schools will be getting started on the new term. Vacations will be over, but not the repetitious telling of vacation stories. Everybody will be buckling down to the job with renewed zest. The crisp air of an early autumn morning makes a man feel capable of completely vanquishing the depression single-handed. Multiplied by 120,000,000, this augurs well. Well, come on, fall. Make good your rosy promise.

Gold Flows Back

AN increase of more than $27,000,000 in monetary gold for the week ended August 3 is shown in the report of the Federal Reserve banks, thus ending a long period of foreign withdrawals.

With the nation's total gold holdings now at $4,000,000,000 and increasing, gloom is given another setback. When gold was being steadily withdrawn from the United States by foreign nations, business was steadily growing worse.

Now that the gold movement has been reversed too much significance cannot be attached to the new movement as a business index.

For a time the strain in Johnstown, Pa., was severe—what with a bonus army and a dam.

London parties are deluged by gate-crashers, the English counterparts of ex-senators from Maryland.

During watermelon time it dawns upon the householder that he should have bought a hotel-size refrigerator.

Throw yourself at a girl's feet and she will step on your neck.

MEMBERS OF LOVE

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

Lily Lou put down the letter. She thought of Uncle Eph, brown and muscular and young, in spite of his 60 years. She had always admired Uncle Eph, though the family hadn't thought he amounted to much. She admired his independence, his doing as he liked, and not caring whether people in town thought much of him or not. It hurt to think of him gone. It made her feel that some part of her was dead, too. . . . The little girl who used to gather Mariposa lilies in the fields, her dark hair flying in the hot wind . . . who used to sit on Uncle Eph's knee in the cabin while Aunt Dolly sang gay little French songs, as she basted fried eggs with bacon grease, and cut thick slices of bread to brown later, in the fat.

She wished that she could do something for Uncle Eph, wished that there were some way to tell him how sorry she was that he was gone. She didn't go to see him the last time she was in Woodlake. She should have. . . .

And then it came to her that he wouldn't have cared. He never cared whether he was remembered or not. He just went his way with his dogs and his horse, content to stop to listen to a meadow lark's song, or watch a sunset, leisurely rolling cigarettes, never in a hurry, never rushed. . . .

And if he left her everything it was for one purpose, to help her achieve her goal.

She brushed a hand across her wet eyes. Stood up. There would be no more idling with the bubble, no more telling herself that she wasn't strong enough to work. Strong! She was strong as a horse! She'd work as she had never worked before. She'd make it up to the old man, who was asleep under the trees in Lone Mountain.

Madame Nahman, the opera performer of Carmen, at the Opera Comique were to virtually close the season. To Lily Lou's overwhelming delight, she was allowed to join the chorus, and understudy for Micaela. The real Micaela was a beautiful young French girl, protégée of one of the conductors. Nahman disliked the girl exceedingly, and engaged in several wordy battles in the effort to get the part for her protégée, Lily Lou.

There was no reason, as Nahman pointed out, why Lily Lou couldn't sing it. She knew it perfectly, her voice was more than adequate. "You've got to start sometime! Why, I myself sang the very role of Micaela when I had no real training at all. All I had was the voice, the temperament, I won! I wasn't afraid of anything. And you—you tremble when I put you in the chorus!"

"It's just the thought of it!" "Get over the thought of it. You're ready to do Gilda or Rosina this minute, or Marguerite—Why do you suppose I took you up? To nurse you along for ten years? You've got to jump these things when they come. This won't come, because Blumenthal's hussy will sing Micaela in spite of the devil. But don't look so scared at the thought of it!"

Lily Lou gulped. She was never a match for Nahman. She couldn't explain. Nahman wouldn't understand. Nahman never felt humble and frightened. She just felt sure of herself, glad of the chance to show how great she was. She didn't feel that the music was great, and the role great, and that she was just somebody hoping to interpret the role.

But some artists did. Tony Schiari did. He told her so. He said he didn't think you had to be sure of yourself that way. They'd often talked about it, back in New York. But you couldn't talk that way to

"If you fail me, I'm through with you! Are you a singer or aren't you?"

Nahman, she just didn't understand. Thought you lacked nerve. . . .

Did she? Lily Lou walked the floor, worrying. Suppose after all that had been done for her, after all her training, she'd be too scared to sing a note?

The first night she could have kissed the French girl, she was so glad to see her appear in the wings, ready to go on and sing the part. Nahman didn't say a word about it, she was so wrapped up in her own performance. She was magnificent, flushed with triumph. Fat and old and blowsy as she looked in her dressing room—a little ridiculous even, in her laced-in bodice and roses in her too curly wig, there was nothing ridiculous about her performance. She was Carmen, audacious, compelling, still alluring. No wonder they acclaimed her, no wonder she was called great!

The second night Lily Lou lost her fear. She wouldn't wish the young French girl any hard luck, but if she got the chance . . . well, Nahman wouldn't have to be ashamed of her. Her voice was better, much better, than the other girls', and she was certainly as good looking. . . .

And the third night . . . the third night she'd have almost traded her soul for the chance, except that the bubble was sick.

"Measles," said the bonne. "Nonsense!" said Leontine, the second maid. "That child has no more measles than I have the stomach ache!"

"A lot you know about it!" said the bonne, "you, who know nothing of children!"

"What, I? Know nothing of children? I who bore four, and have three living, and one with the good God, and you, a single woman, stand there and tell me, me . . ."

"Of a certainty, he has measles," put in Albert the butler, who had arrived to quell the disturbance, and stayed to take a hand in it, "and vinegar, good vinegar diluted—"

"Then send for the doctor!" Lily Lou cried above the din. "Let the doctor decide. What is a doctor for? Albert, you call him, and Leontine—"

"Shut up, all of you!" Madame Nahman shouted. "Give him to me. He's all right. It's just a rash. Leontine, you stop that howling! Shut up . . . oh, my voice, my voice. Why do you let me shout? Lily, the least you can do is to watch me. You know my temperament. Put that child down. Get my wrap, and come, it is time."

"I'll slip over a little later"—Lily Lou said, "after the doctor gets here. Anyway, it won't matter if I don't go. I wish Albert would hurry—"

"He's answering the door. Don't fuss so, Lily. You make me nervous, and when I am nervous on a night like this—"

"It is an old one, from the Opera Comique, an old man, Mesdames," Albert said, returning. "He says Monsieur Blumenthal sends his regards, and Mademoiselle Dejeze has broken her ankle and can not go on. So if Madame Lansing—"

"Heaven be praised, Quick, Lily—Leontine, take the child—"

Madame Nahman was slipping into her wrap—"Come, Lily!"

Lily Lou was rooted to the spot. She looked at the waiting child, at the red-faced, indignant Leontine, the angry nursemaid.

"I hate to leave him . . . The regular understudy could—"

"If you fail me, I'm through with you! Are you a singer, or aren't you? Make up your mind — and quick—we'll both be late!"

Lily Lou bent her head, kissed the baby's soft little neck. Nahman was right of course. It was her chance. The baby would be well cared for . . . Albert would go for the doctor. . . .

Susanne Coin put a wrap over her shoulders.

The three women went down the thickly carpeted stairs. Lily Lou heard the bubble's whimpering cry, as the door closed behind them.

No Fences LEFT to Mend!!

Better Spray a Fly Than Swat Him; But in Some Way Get Rid of Him!

More Than Thirty Diseases Believed to Be Transmitted by Mankind's Ancient Pest, Against Which Everyone Should Enlist in a War of Extermination

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

FLIES have been known to mankind through all time, but it is only within the last thirty years that medical science discovered them to be carriers of disease.

Before this discovery flies were a nuisance, of course, but they were regarded as harmless and were permitted to breed in enormous numbers.

This was excusable when no one suspected the relationship between flies and disease. It is not excusable today, but unfortunately many still tolerate flies and do not seem to realize the dangers of these insects.

Science has decided that the fly may possibly transmit the germs of more than thirty diseases. Typhoid fever, diarrhea and other summer complaints, it is thought, may be caused by the fly, and though not definitely proved, many authorities believe the germs of infantile paralysis are carried by the fly.

Most individuals instinctively avoid filth. Because of their fear of germs and disease, they refuse to buy food that is not clean. Yet these same persons tolerate the disease-laden fly in their homes.

The home may be scrupulously clean, but if flies are present, germs are present. Bear in mind that even if there is only one fly in the house it is potentially dangerous and should be destroyed. I cannot over-emphasize the importance of this attitude toward flies, particularly if there are small children in the family.

Cleanliness is the password in this campaign. Filth and decomposed organic matter, such as garbage, must be carefully destroyed or screened from flies. All garbage pails should be scoured and kept covered. Porches, windows and doorways should be screened throughout the summer months. In spite of these precautions, flies may enter the house through open doors, and these must be destroyed.

There are many ways of destroying the fly, but after careful study it has been found that a chemical spray is the most efficient and sanitary method. The spray used must be harmless to humans and to animal pets, but capable of destroying insects.

There are other less desirable methods of killing the fly. Old-fashioned fly-paper is unclean and unsatisfactory. Do not use poisons in saucers, for this is dangerous and should never be used when there are children in the house.

If you use a newspaper or magazine for swatting the fly, destroy the dead fly as well as the soiled paper. A wire swatter is more satisfactory.

If you rid the home of flies you are guarding against many undesirable diseases. Protect your health and the health of your family by a determined campaign against this old and often overlooked menace to health.

Wide-awake farmers will ship their fruits at this time to be ready for next week's market. Owners of soda fountains should not prepare their syrups for future use. Fruits will be unusually sweet and require less sugar.

Certain angles of the planets which operate during the late evening hours are of a doubtful nature; misunderstanding and deception may prevail. Guard against dishonesty and fraud in games of chance and places of entertainment. Some underworld exposures will come to light.

Physicians should use the utmost caution in administering anaesthetics. Nurses in operation rooms should use care in sterilizing. Children born on this day will make excellent entertainers.

Prominence will be given to seeming distrustful moves in the criminal and reformatory institutions.

There should be more than average activity in money affairs and some important transactions contemplated. Doubts may come up and certain details will not be culminated. Important lawsuit may come up today, but the decision to be remedied will be delayed owing to the lack of clearness of facts.

RED OLYMPIC SCHEDULE FINDS U. S. STILL FAR IN VAN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—The Olympic games went down the drain today on a diver's and far-flung sports front. The movie land's fairest the American country club while 40 miles away at the Long Beach marlin station the finest oarsmen of the world beat broad backs down the 2,000 meter course.

Ten miles from Long Beach, off Point Pirmin, the yachtsmen set sail on the broad Pacific while at the very center of things Olympic, the huge concrete bowl, gymnasts performed their intricate contortions. The fencing, swimming and boxing arenas nearby were beehives of activity.

U. S. FARES WELL

The United States fared well in this strange jumble of sports, increasing its unofficial point total to 465 as Italy clung firmly to second position with 159 1-2. Close behind came Finland 124; France 121 1-2; Sweden 120; and Germany 107. Japan, its flaming sun rising as the swimming sports progressed, increased its total to 73 in ninth place.

Outstanding new Olympic champions were:

Men's swimming, 300-meter-relay—Japan (Miyazaki, Yusa, Toyoda and Yokoyama)—3:58.4 (New Olympic record).

Women's swimming, 200-meter breast stroke—Miss Clair Dennis, Australia—3:06.3 (new Olympic record).

Water polo with the swimming stadium as a background again provided a thrill unlisted on the program. First it was a melee that ended with the Brazilian team being ejected from the games, and Tuesday came further excitement centering around the referee.

REFEREE 'BOOED'

Delahaye of Belgium, presiding over a game between Germany and the United States that ended in a 4 to 4 tie, became irked at "boos" from the stands at his decisions and finally sent police to eject a spectator he thought was leading the disturbance.

The dressage event was the first of the equestrian sports with competing teams from the United States, France, Sweden, and Mexico. Taine, the crack French horse, was the center of attraction.

At Long Beach the first appearance in trial heats of the eight-oared shells was the attractions. The United States, represented by the University of California, was pitted in its heat against the crack teams of Canada, New Zealand, and Germany.

The other eight-oared heat found Japan, England, Italy, and Brazil matching speed. Upwards of 50,000 spectators were expected at the artificial lagoon.

Johnny Dundee was the ring name for Joseph Carrozza, who held the world's featherweight and junior lightweight championship during his long stay in the squared circle.

The Boston Bruins are the leading "pennant" winners in the National Hockey League. They finished first in the American group in the seasons of 1927-28, 1928-29, 1929-30, and 1930-31. Last season they finished fourth in their group.

Edward Burman, playing the Portland, Ore., Golf Course sank his tee shot twice last year on that course and later scored an ace on a 266 yard hole at a Steilacoom Club at Tacoma.

Then we went back to the station, across the Golden Gate and boarded our train again. This afternoon we have been riding in California through both mountains and plains. We stopped at Sacramento, the capital. It did not appeal to me as Los Angeles or San Francisco did. It is not as modern looking as they are.

This evening we crossed the Sierra Nevada and recently arrived in Reno, where we stopped for about ten minutes. Reno as perhaps everyone knows is a town noted for its "reluctancy" in giving divorces and permitting gambling. From what I could see of it, it looked like an attractive town. We are now heading for Salt Lake City.

announcement that Jim Bausch, the boy of Kansas, had won the decathlon event. Jim picked up over 1,000 points from the last three events in which he participated, the pole vault, javelin and shot put, to put him across. A number of spectators had left the stadium after the final event, the 1500-meter run, thoroughly believing that Akilles Jarverson of Finland, had won out. However, when it was officially learned that Mr. Bausch had won with a margin of about 150 points, there was some celebration in this massive Los Angeles stadium. We would predict that many straw-hats which entered that stadium in sound condition made their last trip to the 10th Olympiad, as every article in reach was tossed into the whirl-pool.

WANTED CAMERAS

I looked around quickly enough to see a fellow reach for my camera, presumably, with the intention of giving it a ride with the rest of the confetti. However, I guess such enthusiasm merely exemplifies the average American sport-follower—and, somewhat in the form of a true confession, I must also admit that I became excited and donated my share of the shouting.

As for Bausch, he is certainly deserving of the title he received and his other eight (final) competitors also receive our flowers of the day for their courageous spirit in grinding through the two days of continual tests.

Incidentally when Jim captured this 1932 Olympic decathlon championship, smashing the world and Olympic records to smithereens, he scored the greatest all-around performance of all time. He amassed a total of 8,462.29 points in the 10-event two-day iron man test. Paavo Yrjola of Finland made the former Olympic record in 1928. It stood at 8,053.29 points.

Someone said that Jim is old Citius, Altius and Fortius rolled into one, and we'll certainly put our official stamp on said statement after seeing the Kansas Colossus perform.

VISIT ON COAST

As for today's program at the stadium we are unable to make comment, as we spent the day some 21 miles from this beautiful Spanish city of Los Angeles.

The itinerary of our day included a visit at Long Beach, where for the first time we saw the Pacific Ocean. Thousands of bathers were on the beaches and a large number were fishing. Fearing that some of our friends might doubt our visit on the shores of the Pacific, we procured a bottle and filled it with water from this world's largest body of liquid. And if they still doubt the fact after seeing the water, we will then call on Balboa, the 14th century discoverer of the Pacific, to affirm our statement by testing the water.

Several pictures of the Pacific were also shot, although, no one was injured) per our pocket camera.

Later in the afternoon we were

PIRATES MAY GO TO SECOND

Meet Boston Again After Huck Betts Gives Them Four Hits Tuesday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. — The Pittsburgh Pirates, who a couple of weeks ago looked like a copper-riveted cinch to grab the National league flag, may tumble out of first place today when they tackle the pesky Boston Braves in a double-header.

The Bucs, whose slump is the worst suffered by a pennant contender in modern baseball, led Chicago by only half a game this morning. They took their tenth straight beating in being white-washed by Huck Betts of the Braves yesterday, 4 to 0. Betts held the league leaders to four scattered hits while his mates knocked Remy Kremer out in the second inning.

HUBBELL ERRS

Two unearned runs in the ninth inning, as a result of a pair of errors by Pitcher Carl Hubbell, gave the Cubs a 4 to 3 decision over the Giants. Woody English followed these bobbles with a hit that drove in the winning run.

The batting of Gink Hendrick and Chick Hafey enabled Cincinnati to beat Brooklyn, 9 to 8. Hafey hit a homer with two on and Hendrick drove in the winning run in the tenth.

St. Louis made it three straight over the Phillies, taking an 18 to 13 slugfest in which 44 hits were made for a total of 68 bases. Jim Bottomley, with two homers and two singles, drove in five runs.

Lefty Gomez of the Yankees, leading hurler in the American league, hung up his 19th victory by subduing the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3, thanks to Babe Ruth's 32nd homer of the season, which came in the sixth inning with two on base.

General Alvin Crowder won his 14th victory by turning back Cleveland, 4 to 2. Detroit twinned the Red Sox, 9 to 7 and 5 to 2.

SIX-HOUR DAY SLATED

BUTTE, Mont.—James H. Rowe, Montana highway commissioner, announced recently that a six-hour day and a five-day week would be guaranteed workmen on state highway projects. Wages will range from 50 cents per hour upward.

15,000 Fanettes Watch Red Birds

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10.—Fifteen thousand women fans who turned out to see the Kansas City-Columbus ball game yesterday weren't a mite disappointed today as the local Red Birds chalked up their eighth consecutive win, defeating Kansas City, 6 to 5.

The game was packed full of thrills as the Reds came from behind the ninth to lead the bases and then score two runs for the deciding advantage.

More than 20,000 packed the stadium but as it was ladies' day it wasn't a bit surprising that 15,000 of them were women.

One thing can be said for the Birds. They are sure packing them in, with crowds of 17,000, 15,000 not being the unusual as they are on their pennant trek.

Minneapolis won from Louisville yesterday and retained its small lead in first place in the American Association pennant race. Columbus is second and coming up the homestretch strong.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Lee, Tracy and Ann Dvorak, leading players in "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain," the First National picture coming to the Cliftona Theatre today, have been given one of the most talented supporting casts ever assembled by a studio.

Tracy, best known for his roles in "Broadway," "Front Page" and "Louder Please" on the Broadway stage, has been given his biggest picture role in "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain."

Ann Dvorak first came into prominence through the splendid manner in which she played her role opposite James Cagney in "The Crowd Roars," the stirring racing drama. Previously she had appeared in "Scarface" and "Sky Devils" for Howard Hughes, both of which were directed by Howard Hawks, who also directed "The Crowd Roars."

The supporting players include Richard Cromwell, star of the talkie version of "Tolable David"; Guy Kibbee, famous for his varieties of character portrayals; Leslie Fenton, one of the most successful of Hollywood's young actors; Frank McHugh, famous for both comedy and newspaper reporter characterizations; Evelyn Knapp, charming ingenue of George Arliss' "Millionaire"; and recently cast with him in a prominent role of "Successful Calamity."

AT THE GRAND

Culver Military Academy, the famous Indian school, is the Alma Mater of several well known screen actors, who received their education at this magnificent institution on the shores of Lake Maxinkuckee.

Adolph Menjou, Eugene Pallette and Jerry Miley all attended Culver, as did also Will Rogers, Jr., and George Schumann, son of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

This famous military school is seen as the background of the Universal drama, "Tom Brown of Culver," the Universal drama which is playing the Grand Theatre this week, with Tom Brown, H. B. Warner and Slim Summerville in the featured roles. Much of the picture was actually filmed at Culver, whither a production unit traveled from Hollywood. William Wyler directed "Tom Brown of Culver" and the cast includes such screen favorites as Richard Cromwell, Ben Alexander, Sidney Toler, Willard Robertson, Andy Devine, Russell Hopton and Dick Winslow.

ECONOMY IN HOME

The busiest "ways and means" committee of any business today is that which concentrates on ways and means by which overhead may be cut down. How is this "committee" working in your home?

Managing the home today is a serious business and "overhead" expense is a problem deserving the most careful attention of every home manager. Many items and conveniences in the home, which categorically are overhead, do not have to be discarded entirely in cutting down expenses.

Watchfulness on the part of every member of the household will work wonders with the monthly expense. Water wasted, lights left burning when unneeded, burns left in the gas range going strong unnecessarily—all these things increase overhead.

Here are some reasons why the gas bill sometimes runs higher than it should.

The giant burner is used when a smaller burner will do.

Food is taken off the fire and the flame left burning.

Water and foods are allowed to boil furiously, instead of the flame being turned down.

Larger cooking utensils than necessary are often used.

A gallon of water is heated when a pint would do.

Little carelessnesses such as these do not seem much at the time, but through a month are accumulative. Watchfulness is the home manager's most efficient weapon for cutting down overhead in the home.

"And this brings forward the thought that it we are to extend that service outside our own borders, we must be competent to think in terms of the whole American population, and not merely in terms of our own more narrow circle. It is true that many people in other parts of the country do not understand the higher purposes of the State of New York, but it is also true that some of us in the State of New York are not sufficiently understanding of the high aims and purposes of our fellow citizens in other parts of the Nation."

16 flutes and piccolo's; 8 oboes; 90 clarinets; 28 saxophones; 12 bassoons; 45 trumpets; 26 French horns; 12 baritone's, 25 trombone's; 22 basset's, and 12 percussion.

The band will broadcast from the front yard of the State Capitol at four o'clock on Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons the week before the Fair over WAIU and other radio stations.

The three hundred boys making up this band will come to Columbus via buses. They will be housed in tents having wooden floors and these quarters will be inspected daily by the Health Department.

Visiting nurses will be in constant attendance. The boys will be under the strict discipline of Director Louis E. Fete and five assistants together with a manager.

On the Ohio State Fair Grounds, the Red Cross will maintain a complete surgical and medical unit and every attention that this unit can provide will be given these boys. Their tents will be enclosed by an 8 ft wire mesh fence and an officer will be on guard at the main gate of this enclosure during the day and night.

SUPPLY MEALS
The meals supplied to the boys will be furnished by Markle, the well-known restaurant, man of Columbus, which is sufficient to guarantee the very best service that can be rendered.

Uniforms which the boys will wear will be laundered twice during the Fair week. When the entire band is assembled they will be a picturesque sight to behold Downtown parades in the Capitol City will be staged at different periods during the Fair week.

Between them the Hoover name and fortune still have been goose eggs.

On the Ohio State Fair Grounds, the Red Cross will maintain a complete surgical and medical unit and every attention that this unit can provide will be given these boys. Their tents will be enclosed by an 8 ft. wire mesh fence and an officer will be on guard at the main gate of this enclosure during the day and night.

The meals supplied to the boys will be furnished by Markle, the well-known restaurant man of Columbus, which is sufficient to guarantee the very best service that can be rendered.

Uniforms which the boys will wear will be laundered twice during the Fair week. When the entire band is assembled they will be a picturesque sight to behold. Downtown parades in the Capitol City will be staged at different periods during the Fair week.

Between them the Hoover name and fortune still have been goose eggs.

IS HOSTESS AT BREAKFAST BRIDGE

A profusion of summer garden flowers attractively decorated the home of Miss Marie Hamilton of W. High-st. for the breakfast bridge, Wednesday, when she was hostess to thirty-two of her friends.

Artificially arranged baskets of gladioli, delphinium, asters, and zinnias were placed to advantage in the rooms, where guests were seated at small tables for the breakfast at 10 o'clock.

The beautifully appointed tables were centered with bowls of scabiosa in varied colors and lavender statue. Clever Japanese carts with miniature parasols in pastel shades marked each place and added much to the attractiveness of the tables.

Bridge was in play at eight tables after the breakfast, and the hours passed all too quickly for the congenial group.

Misses Margaret Boggs and Mollie Sammon of Cleveland and Mrs. Hurst Armstrong and sister, Miss Bowsher of Laurelvale were out-of-town guests at the charming affair.

Miss Hamilton will entertain at another delightful party Thursday

HUGE SUCCESS

woman and many comical interesting scenes result. Mrs. Henpeck is duly notified of the fact that her husband is seen promenading about town with a "vamp".

Mrs. Henpeck gives chase and an automobile accident results in which Mr. Henpeck and the vamp successfully escape from the accident and are later cornered, when Mr. Henpeck finds that the "vamp" is no other than the "baby". The situation from time to time intense and keeps the audience guessing just what is to happen next. The acting was so real that one could imagine he was witnessing a movie with a cast of high priced artists.

Interesting indeed were the scenes of the making of a newspaper, from the time of the gathering of the news of the accident to the huge and modern linotype machines of the Herald then to the "make-up"
department of the composing room where the process of making forms to fit the press that is daily serving Pickaway-co with the news of the world.

Then interesting scenes are shown of the operation of the press in action and the neatly folded newspapers to the newsboys that deliver their different routes.

COMEDY PREVAILS

Then the story continues with many more comical incidents that pleases the audience. This marvelous picture of home talent is showing at the Cliftona Theater for today and Thursday and one should see it and enjoy it. It may be that you can recognize yourself as many interesting scenes were taken with hundreds of people in the scenes.

Director Don Newland has certainly shown his ability to direct:
in taking raw material and having them acting like movie veterans is no cinch and much credit is due to Director Newland.

The picture is well worth seeing and large attendances are expected at the showings today and tomorrow at the Cliftona.

The film is being shown in connection with Ann Dvorak in "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain".

BEHIND the SCENE
In HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Red-
headed Virginia Bruce, the apple of John Gilbert's eye, has received a new film assignment—and Hollywood is wondering whether it will postpone her marriage to the star.

The former Ziegfeld beauty will play one of the principal roles in
"Kongo," which goes into immediate production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. As she will be busy on the picture for several weeks, it looks as if Jack will have to wait a while to put the platinum
and diamond band upon her finger.

The marriage, Jack told me only
the other day, was scheduled to take place as soon as he and Ina
Claire received their final decree
of divorce. Court records show
the interlocutory decree was entered on August 5, 1933. Now it takes only a formal application to cut the marital ties for good.

Strange thing about the romance
of Jack and Virginia. He met her
when she came up for a lead in his picture. After an impetuous courtship, they announced their engagement. Hollywood smiled indulgently. They said it was a phony, a publicity stunt. When Jack began showering expensive
jewelry and gave a handsome roadster to his fiancée, the film crowd were a little less sure. Now
it seems the two were on the level
all the time. Hollywood stands corrected.

Kindly old Carl Laemmle gave them a laugh the other day
when the Finnish Olympic team visited Universal.

Paavo Nurmi was along and explained through an interpreter
that he had been disqualified for the games.

Uncle Carl smiled and gave him a pat on the head. He said: "Well if they don't want you, I can always use you as a leg man."

BOULEVARD TALKS:

Despite lukewarm reports from
some of the smaller theaters, the shocker may be found in most of the new studio programs. Warners
are enthusiastic about their "Doctor X" and will begin work shortly
on "Wax Works," an unproduced
play by Charles S. Belden. This picture will have the added novelty
of taking place in a single set—a wax work museum similar to the famous establishment of Madame Tussaud in London. It appears certain that Michael Curtiz will direct "Wax Works" and Barbara Stanwyck is being considered for

one of the principal roles.

What a break for some autograph hunter if he had happened
to attend the performance of "Reunion in Vienna" the other evening. Three of Hollywood's most elusive stars were in the audience—
John Barrymore, Clive Brook
and Ronald Colman.

Wheeler and "Sugar" Geise, petite
blonde chorine, are making eyes at each other these nights at the Frolics. The two were as thick as
that before Bert went East.

They're saying that the romance
between Martha Sleeper and Randolph Scott is cold. Stanley Smith
squired her to the opening of Jimmie Grier's band at the Biltmore wine are seeing each other regularly.

The personal appearance
of Jack Sparo, another Hollywood star, will entertain San Francisco audiences for a week.
Ken Murray will have you believe that the Los Angeles Olympic games are more impressive than those at Antwerp. He rushed back
here to make the comparison.

Many a feminine eye followed Lilyan Tashman in her appearance at the big stadium. Lilyan wore a special Olympic blue flannel sport
outfit with a hat duplicating the shape of those worn by the American girl athletes.

Newest book on Hollywood is "Tattle Telling on the Stars," by Sonia Lee, former reporter and now a fan magazine
writer.

ing in a New York business

FIND OLD TAPESTRIES

VATICAN CITY STATE.—By
merit, chance two very valuable tapestries have been discovered in
a summer house in the Pope's Garden. Rolled up and covered with dust they have been there
unnoticed for nearly half a century. They are the product of the once famous house of Pasquier
Grenier, and were made by him
in 1450 for King Philip of France,
known as Philip the Good.

It was necessary for a member of his audience to explain to Senator LaFollette that very valuable
is an eye disease with the X marking the spot before the eye.

SPEEDBOAT RIDE
IS FATAL TO MAN

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—A
pleasure jaunt in a speedboat on
the Ohio river today had cost the life of Robert Ribbe, 30, of Wyoming, O.

Ribbe, standing on the top of
the speeding launch, lost his balance and fell overboard near the Kentucky shore at Covey Island.

His companions attempted to rescue him but by the time the
boat circled back to the spot, Ribbe had disappeared beneath the surface.

A profusion of summer garden flowers attractively decorated the home of Miss Marie Hamilton of W. High-st. for the breakfast bridge, Wednesday, when she was hostess to thirty-two of her friends.

Artistically arranged baskets of gladioli, delphinium, astors, and zinnias were placed to advantage in the rooms, where guests were seated at small tables for the breakfast at 10 o'clock.

The beautifully appointed tables were centered with bowls of scabiosa in varied colors and lavender statice. Clever Japanese carts with miniature parasols in pastel shades marked each place and added much to the attractiveness of the tables.

Bridge was in play at eight tables after the breakfast, and the hours passed all too quickly for the congenial group.

Misses Margaret Boggs and Mollie Sammon of Cleveland, and Mrs. Hurst Armstrong and sister, Miss Bowsher of Laurelville were out-of-town guests at the charming affair.

Miss Hamilton will entertain at another delightful party Thursday morning, when she will assemble eight tables of bridge at ten o'clock.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Red-headed Virginia Bruce, the apple of John Gilbert's eye, has received a new film assignment—and Hollywood is wondering whether it will postpone her marriage to the star.

The former Ziegfeld beauty will play one of the principal roles in "Kongo," which goes into immediate production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. As she will be busy on the picture for several weeks, it looks as if Jack will have to wait a while to put the platinum and diamond band upon her finger.

The marriage, Jack told me only the other day, was scheduled to take place as soon as he and Ina Claire received their final decree of divorce. Court records show the interlocutory decree was entered on August 3, last. Now a formal application to cut the marital ties for good.

Strange thing about the romance of Jack and Virginia, however, is that she came up for a lead in his picture. After an impetuous courtship, they announced their engagement. Hollywood smiled indulgently. They said it was a publicity stunt. When Jack began showering expensive jewelry and gave a handsome roadster to his fiancée, the film crowd were a little less sure. Now it seems, the two were on the level all the time. Hollywood stands corrected.

Kindly old Carl Laemmle gave them a laugh the other day when the Finnish Olympic team visited Universal.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Red-

postpone her marriage to the star
of divorce. Court records show
the former Ziegfeld beauty will

"Kongo," which goes into immediate production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. As she will be busy on the picture for several weeks, it looks as if Jack will have
to wait a while to put the platinum
and diamond band upon her finger.

The marriage, Jack told me only
the other day, was scheduled to take place as soon as he and Ina
Clare received their final decree
of divorce. Court records show
the interdictory decree was entered on August 5, 1931. Now it takes only a formal application to
cut the marital ties for good.

Strange thing about the romance
of Jack and Virginia. He met her
when she came up for a lead in
his picture. After an impetuous
courtship, they announced their engagement. Hollywood smiled
indulgently. They said it was a phony, a publicity stunt. When Jack began showering expensive
jewelry and gave a handsome
quest to his fiancée, the film crowd were a little less sure. Now
it seems, the two were on the level

plained through an interpreter

ways use you as a leg man."

BOULEVARD TALKS:

Despite lukewarm reports from
some of the smaller theaters, the
shocker may be found in most of
the new studio programs. Warners
are enthusiastic about their "Doctor X" and will begin work shortly
on "Wax Works," an unproduced
play by Charles S. Belden. This picture will have the added novelty
of taking place in a single set—a
wax work museum similar to the
famous establishment of Madame Tussaud in London. It appears
certain that Michael Curtiz will direct "Wax Works" and Barbara Stanwyck is being considered for

one of the principal roles.

What a break for some auto-
graph hunter if he had happened
to attend the performance of "Reunion in Vienna" the other even-
ing. Three of Hollywood's most
elusive stars were in the audience
—John Barrymore, Clive Brook
and Ronald Colman. Bert
Wheeler and "Sugar" Geise, petite
blonde chorine, are making eyes at
each other these nights at the Frolics. The two were as thick as
that before Bert went East.

They're saying that the romance
between Martha Sleeper and Randolph Scott is cold. Stanley Smith
squired her to the opening of Jimmie Greer's band at the Baltimore arena, and were seen each other regularly. Mary Carls and Jerry Horarly. The personal appearance of a spares another Hollywood star. Chic Sale will entertain San Francisco audiences for a week.

Ken Murray will have you believe
that the Los Angeles Olympic
games are more impressive than
those at Antwerp. He rushed back
here to make the comparison.

Many a feminine eye followed Lil-
yan Tashman in her appearance at the big stadium. Lilyan wore a special Olympic blue flannel sport
outfit with a hat duplicating the
shape of those worn by the American girl athletes. Newest book on Hollywood is "Tattle Telling on the Stars," by Sonia Lee, former
reporter and now a fan magazine
writer.

FIND OLD TAPESTRIES
VATICAN CITY STATE—By
mere chance two very valuable tapestries have been discovered in
a summer house in the Pope's Garden. Rolled up and covered
with dust they have been there
unnoticed for nearly half a century. They are the product of the
once famous house of Pasquier
Grenier, and were made by him
in 1450 for King Philip of France,
known as Philip the Good.

It was necessary for a member of his audience to explain to Senator LaFollette that xeraphantoma
is an eye disease with the X marking the spot before the eye.

Reynolds Prosecutor

Carlisle Higgins (above), prosecutor of Winston-Salem, N. C., has charge of the State's case against Libby Holman Reynolds and Ab Walker, charged with the killing of Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir husband of the "torch singer."

Any Good News?

Getting right down to work Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island
chairman of the Hoover campaign for the Eastern states, is shown at his newly opened New York head quarters. The Senator has been an ardent supporter of Administration policies and was personally selected by the President to run the Eastern campaign.

SPEEDBOAT RIDE
IS FATAL TO MAN

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—A
pleasure jaunt in a speedboat on
the Ohio river today had cost the life of Robert Ribbe, 30, of Wyoming, O.

Ribbe, standing on the top of
the speeding launch, lost his balance and fell overboard near the Kentucky shore at Coney Island.
His companions attempted to
rescue him but by the time the
boat circled back to the spot,
Ribbe had disappeared beneath the surface.

Mollison, accompanied by his wife, Miss Amy Johnson, in another plane, arrived here last tic crossing will be made from

AND GRAY

LITTLE JACK HORNER SAYS:

"You can always depend on grandma just like you can depend on your home town greenhouse. You may see something especially pleasing to a city flowershop but you can go to your greenhouse and get the same thing that is a whole lot more fresh because they grow it instead of buying it. Fertilize your Evergreens now. Use our Aluminum Sulphate Fertilizer for reds and Rhododendrons."
